Nicky Clayton is Professor of Comparative Cognition and Clive Wilkins is Artist-in-Residence in the Department of Psychology at Cambridge. They are co-founders of The Captured Thought, which is an arts and science collaboration that explores mental time travel, the subjective experience of thinking and the nature of creativity. They have lectured widely in the UK, Europe, USA, Asia and New Zealand to science and arts audiences in universities and in public venues.

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

The PdOC Society

Postdocs Of Cambridge (PdOC) Society is the Cambridge University Society for postdoctoral research staff. Our aim is to bring the postdoc community together on both a social and intellectual level to raise the profile of postdoctoral research.

The Crossing the Barriers lecture series aims to promote University of Cambridge postdoc research visibility by offering an environment to exchange ideas, concepts and views across different fields of research, as well as offer postdocs an experience of college life and an opportunity to meet and network.
